

Reese Hand, DVM, ACVS, Sports Medicine and Lameness specialist

Dr. Reese Hand received his Bachelor of Science degree in Animal Science from Texas Tech University in Lubbock, TX in 1993 and his DVM from Texas A&M College of Veterinary Medicine, College Station, TX in 1997. In 1997-1998 he did an internship at Littleton Large Animal Clinic in Littleton, CO, followed by a Surgery Residency at Texas A&M College of Veterinary Medicine from 1998 to 2001.

Dr. Hand stayed on at Texas A&M for a year following his residency as an instructor and obtained board certification in the American College of Veterinary Surgeons in February, 2002. In June 2002, he became a partner in Great Basin Equine in Gardnerville, Nevada. In September 2008 Dr. Hand returned to Texas to be on staff at Equine Sports Medicine and Surgery in Weatherford, TX.

Dr. Hand grew up on a ranch in the panhandle of Texas, where his family raised ranch horses and ran stocker cattle. He showed horses and was a calf roper in high school. He and his wife Cristen continue to have an interest in western performance horses.
